Thank you, Jeff. I am old school on those state emails!

This is all through Leadership Montana with all costs covered by the grant referenced.

Others included are facilitators and so not paying to attend.

Attached is the agenda.

The value is $1000 which includes meals, lodging, materials, and facilitation.

Chantel – received today, just an FYI my email is jeff.mangan@mt.gov (the jmangan is from a different era – I find myself wanting to use it too!)

Reviewing your email now. Is this through Leadership Montana or another org? What is the cost (value) per person of the retreat (cost/value of training, lodging, meals, transportation, materials, etc)? Are others invited (non legislators), is there an private pay option? All funded through the grant referenced? Is there an agenda available?

Thank you,

Jeff

Commissioner Mangan,

I am the CEO and President of Leadership Montana, a non-partisan, not for profit organization with the mission of helping our citizens to approach conflict in a constructive manner, through civility and enlightened perspective. I write to notify your office of a training being offered to legislators free of charge over the next year, and to avail myself for any questions you may have relating to existing laws or rules to which these elected officials are bound. This training is funded through a grant from AMB West Philanthropies, a non-partisan family foundation.

A key component of our curriculum is Gracious Space, developed by the Center for Ethical Leadership, which is a framework to work better together around critical issues. Through this curriculum, we hope to help our leaders engage in difficult conversations around the most challenging issues. Gracious Space is most powerful and most needed when conflict is present.

In anticipation of curiosity on the part of the public, some lawmakers have already asked for an opinion from the Code Commissioner around participating in our training. His opinion is attached for your review. While this is not a request for a formal advisory opinion by the Commissioner of Political Practices, I understand that this sort of training may elevate to the public eye. Indeed, we are happy to shine a light on our process.

We hope this may assist you and your staff in answering any questions that may be fielded by curious members of the public. We welcome any inquiry.

My very best,
Chantel
